

Minimum feed-in tariff 2019-2020

Title/Question: Make a submission on the draft decision
 Tool Type: Form
 Activity ID: 1566
 Report Date Range: 4 Dec 2018 - 12 Jan 2019
 Date Exported: 14 Jan 2019 09:25 am
 Exported By: Merryn.Wilson

Contribution ID	Username	Email	Our draft decision continues to provide the choice for retailers to offer different feed-in tariff options. Consumers are free to shop around and choose the option that best suits their circumstances. What do you think of this approach?	We have updated the approach we use to forecast prices in the wholesale market to provide more transparency and simplicity to stakeholders. What are your thoughts on this?	Do you have any other feedback you would like to provide?	First Name	Last Name	Postcode	I want my submission to be published as 'anonymous'	I agree to the privacy statement (above)	Submitted Date
55171			I think this is a good approach, it will help keep the feed in market competitive. However, I do not believe the minimum feed-in tariff is set high enough to encourage increased uptake of solar panels in residential homes and support Victoria to transition to a more sustainable and environmentally friendly power supply.	I do not believe the minimum feed-in tariff is set high enough to encourage increased uptake of solar panels in residential homes and support Victoria to transition to a more sustainable and environmentally friendly power supply.	I do not believe the minimum feed-in tariff is set high enough to encourage increased uptake of solar panels in residential homes and support Victoria to transition to a more sustainable and environmentally friendly power supply.	anonymous	anonymous	anonymous	Yes	Yes	2018-12-21 10:11:40
60986			This will encourage competition between retailers and hopefully a better feed in rate for consumers in the future as the current rates we get back are terrible it does not encourage people to invest in solar energy systems.	The ability for people to be able to understand what they are being charged upfront should be standard. It is not fair to the consumer to make it difficult to know what they are being charged, it should also be illegal to charge exit fees to change suppliers when a better offer is found. No lock in contracts !!		anonymous	anonymous	anonymous	Yes	Yes	2019-01-12 15:47:38